

Mulgara - Bug #157

WebUI shouldn't need ; on TQL

Description In the WebUI every TQL command requires a ; character finishing it (or possibly a newline - I need to check). Also, newlines are not treated as whitespace. Before handing a query off to TQL we should check for the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• If the text does not end in a ; then text to the end should be considered a query on its own.• newline characters should be replaced with spaces.

History

(In r1398) Updated WebUI with a couple of cosmetic enhancements.

- No longer require a ; at the end of a TQL query. This addresses #157
- If the default graph is blank, then update it with the last queried graph
- A separate servlet for the tutorial. This gets the tutorial out of the way for this majority of users as they're not using it.
